NORTHEASTERN
LEADERSHIP TEAM

JOSEPH E. AOUN

President, Northeastern University

Joseph E. Aoun, a well-known higher education thought leader and renowned scholar in linguistics, is the seventh President of Northeastern University.

An internationally respected voice on the value of global and experiential education, President Aoun led the global expansion of Northeastern's signature co-op program, bringing experiential learning opportunities to 148 countries. During his tenure, the university has created a global university system spanning campuses across North America and the U.K., quadrupled external research funding to more than $200 million in annual awards, hired more than 800 tenured and tenure-track faculty, and earned the designation of an R1 research institution.

President Aoun is the author of numerous articles and books, including "Robot-Proof: Higher Education in the Age of Artificial Intelligence" (MIT Press, 2017). In it, he confronts the need for colleges and universities to meet the challenges and opportunities of the complex digital economy. The book lays out a blueprint for higher education with three primary components: a new curriculum for the A.I. age; the case for experiential learning, the ideal delivery system for this new curriculum; and a call for higher education to place lifelong learning at the heart of the educational enterprise.

DIANE NISHIGAYA MACGILLIVRAY

Most recently, she was instrumental in attaining two $100 million gifts to launch an advanced technology campus in Portland, Maine—one from David and Barbara Roux to create the Roux Institute, and a second from the Harold Alfond Foundation to provide scholarships and other resources for its students.

After coming to Northeastern, she implemented a strategic restructuring of the fundraising operation from a centralized model to a more effective hybrid structure and oversaw the creation of new initiatives such as the parent giving program, innovative alumni engagement programs, and Women Who Empower—a university-wide initiative grounded in the belief that diverse and inclusive communities empower a better world.
